“Don’t think it’s a huge problem. I think more people hide it more than they want it to be a joke and some people take it heart.” Sophomore Chloe Hollard said. Bullying is not to be taken lightly. There is more than just physical bullying there is verbal bullying and cyber bullying. According to digitalcitizenship.org, there is every cyber bullying on school grounds as opposed to on the way to school. One out of four kids are bullied every day. Teenagers say revenge is everything from what’s on school shootings.

Bullying can lead to suicide. antennal told a teen from youthcomer. cụdraul took her own life due to but she life she left behind a chilling video on YouTube telling her story of bullying. “I have seen bullying happen, but I didn’t anyone to stop it. I know, but because it was the little and the people were not taking a serious.” Hollard said.

“Knows about the is- etical bullying but I have seen people joking and kidding. But I have not doing really anything because I don’t know if they’re joking or not,” said Hollard.

According to school bullying statistics. Signs of being bullied are loss in ap- pétitess, bruises and cuts on the body, decrease in school per- formance, have nightmares, has blisters problems, com- plaints often about headaches, no appetite, not sleeping control on our, and not knowing whether to use technology/buying products online. Digital Etiquettes is the proper way of using technol- ogy in both good and bad ways. That is why it can cause a problem like cyberbullying, it bring brought to light, this could possibly become a bigger is- sue and harder to take care of. If this becomes a bigger problem in the future certain measures will be taken in order to define the problem.

“Students privileges will be suspended or removed” Moore said “If the prob- lem persists the suspension of students will be an op- tion, and we may shut down their computer accounts.” For now few students are participating in this activity.

Facebook is one of the most used sites on school grounds. According to digitalcitizen.org, the average Facebook user will be on for at least 20 minutes, viewing everything on their stream and the multitude of problems in the digital culture. The first thing that needs to be as sneaky as they can be. They may not have the background to work on their own, but they need to be trained in those steps.

The expectation is that they will be monitoring the schools, blocking all sites. However, are we using this properly? Moore said("If the problem persists, the suspension of students will be an option, and we may shut down their computer accounts.") For now few students are participating in this activity. There is not telling that the future holds. In case of this problem gain, getting a lot of problems don't it is appropriate, it would not an issue. Moore added. According to Mason Roth he has pretty much known since he was in 7th grade, that he uses what is called a proxy websites.

"First, it is our responsibility to make sure that all websites students are signed up for the account.

Digital Citizenship is a key element technology us students have to find out are using this on a computer or another kind of technology. Students should be informed so they know their rights and also dangers of technology. Students not only have to know the rules of the program or social network that they are using. Part of Digital Citizenship is students are able to have the responsibility to follow the rules of the websites. Many times issues arise from one not knowing the regulations are. A way to prevent this is to read through the regulations which would sign up for the account. Usually, the first thing is to make sure that all websites are being used in the right manner, so that issues are not an issue. It is able to keep these programs up and running.

Among the numerous and tedious tests that were taken in the Spring of the 2011-2012 school year by first graders at this time, a few are now giving Crete some recognition statewide. Those tests are known as the NeSA tests or the Nebraska State Accountability Tests. Those tests are given to all schools by the state of Nebraska or by the Nebraska State Accountability Tests, which helps determine the ability of teachers and students as well as the school system as a whole. The NeSA tests measure how well students are prepared for post-secondary education and how successful teachers are at preparing their students. The tests cover a variety of subjects, including math, reading, science, and social studies. The NeSA tests help educators evaluate student performance and focus on areas where improvement is needed. The results of the NeSA tests are used to inform instructional practices and to improve student outcomes. The NeSA tests are an important tool in assessing the effectiveness of education programs and in identifying areas where additional support is needed. These measures allow the student to know whether he or she is on track for success in college or in the workforce. The NeSA tests are essential to ensure that all students have access to high-quality education and are prepared for success in the 21st century.}
